Maigret in Montmartre (ITV) was Rowan Atkinson's fourth outing as a Gallic sleuth, and if he wasn't one of the best Christmas programmes it was at least one of the best planned. This 90-minute period potboiler was, in a sense, the perfect companion on woozy Christmas Eve, when gifts are under a tree and mystery that is all wrapped neatly towards the end is just a thing to send you to bed feeling narratively nourished. Maigret was presented with two murders (in Montmartre); one victim was a dancer, the other was a countess with morphine. His task was to find something that connected them together and eventually whodunit. The result was not predictable, but the process was. After the evidence presented themselves, Maigret mused, smoked, had an epiphany and eventually got his man. Although it can be said writer Guy Andrews is somewhat hamstrung, having Simenon very popular, but formulaic novels as its source of material, this is still a very ordinary detective series. Jeopardy comes in the form of shady men in trilby and trenches, shot at the back, and means swelling strings. The action follows Maigret and no one else. What makes tonight's episode so suitable for Christmas Eve, however, is that it all plays out against the backdrop of the exquisitely lit Parisian who brought 1955 alive - the kind of things that are nice to have on a TV screen, even if you're not paying much attention to it. Maigret returns to screens for another episode based on the famous French detective with Rowan Atkinson back in his trilby as the streets of Paris are rocked by a double murder. Can Maigret unspool the keys and hunt down the perpetrator? For more on the cast, see below... Detective Jules Maigret (played by Rowan Atkinson) Rowan Atkinson in Maigret, ITV Pictures, SL Eponymous French Detective becomes emotionally invested in this particular case as dancer Arlette comes to him, fearing for his life after eavesdropping on plans to kill the Countess. When he fails to protect her, Maigret feels responsible and hell seeks to catch her killer. Who is Rowan Atkinson? Rowan Atkinson is a comedy legend best known for his roles as the iconic characters Edmund Blackadder and Mr. Bean. He wrote Black Adder's first outing with Richard Curtis, reprising his role in subsequent series, and played Mr. Bean since 1999 in the TV series, two feature films and now an animated version. Atkinson also appeared in four weddings and a funeral and Love Actually, played by Johnny English, voiced by zazu in The Lion King and before Ben Elton's police comedy The Thin Blue Line. Arlette (played by Olivia Vinnal) Olivia Vinnal at the Evening Standard Theatre Awards, Getty, SL Beguiling dancer Arlette comes to Maigret on the Orphera waterfront claiming she overheard two men discussing the countess's murder. But Arlette is suspiciously prickly and eventually rushes from the station. The next morning she was found in his apartment. Who is it? Vinnal? Olivia Vinnal's TV breakthrough role came this year, playing the character's daughter Emily Watson in Apple Tree Yard. She has since wrapped up on the film Amma Asante when Hands Touch and filmed the BBC's six-part series Woman in White due on screens next year. Olivia also stepped the boards in the National Theatre productions of Othello (as Desdemona opposite Adrian Lester) and King Lear (played by Cordelia) and played the lead role in Tom Stoppard's play The Difficult Problem. Philippe (played by Sebastian de Souza) Sebastian de Souza at the Television Critics Association, Getty, SL Rent Boy Philippe Sponge from the Countess - although her fortune has long since declined. Married to actor and director Andy Serkis. Inspector Janvier (played by Sean Dingwall) Janvier is Maigret's loyal deputy, working alongside a French detective in cracking complex cases. Who's Jouna Dingwall? Sean Dingwall has a lot of experience playing cops - he portrayed DC Mark Rivers in three episodes of Paul Abbott's Touching Evil, DI Mike Lewis's Linda La Plante above suspicion and Detective Super in the new stunts. He was also the father of Rose Tyler Pete in Doctor Who and the old young Del Boy in Rock and Chips - a prequel only to fools and horses. Inspector LaPointe (played by Leo Staar) Leo Staar in Maigret, ITV Pictures, SL Lapointe also works for Maigret - but viewers will notice a flash of recognition when he sees Arlette's body. What's he hiding? Who is Yo Leo Staar? Leo Staar will be best known for most as Jenny Lee Alec Jesmond's boyfriend call the Midwife, bowing in tear-jerking fashion. After leaving the drama he made appearances in Accidents, Death in Paradise and Lewis. Madame Maigret (played by Lucy Kohu) by Lucy Kohu in Maigret, ITV Pictures, SL Maigret's loyal wife sticks beside him through thick and thin and put up with the long hours he spends dealing with cases, including his late-night crime re-enactments in their living room. Who's Lucy Kohu? Lucy Kohu made her name playing Major Jessica Bailey in Soldier. Soldier before going on to win a Bafta and the Emmys nodded for her portrayal of Princess Margaret in Channel 4's Sister of the queen. She got her hands on the Emmys after all for true life drama Forgiven, and also appeared in Cape Wrath, Ballet Shoes, Torchwood and Broadchurch. Dr Bloch (played by Adrian Scarborough) Adrian Scarborough at the premiere of On Chesil Beach, Getty, SL The Man Who Managed the Countess is called to the news of her death to help with investigations. Maigret suspects that he supplied her with a steady stream of morphine. Who's lerrian Scarborough? During his 25-year career, Adrian Scarborough has been known for his roles in The Royal Speech, Gavin and Stacey (played by Pete Sutcliffe), Upstairs (as Mr. Pritchard's Butler) and Miranda (pictured with Charlie). On stage, he won the 2011 Olivier Award for Best Supporting Actor for his role in After dance and starred in countless productions for the National Theatre. Countess (played by Nicola Sloan) Nicola Sloan in Maigret, ITV, SL once married a wealthy member of the institution, the Countess kept an unwanted company after his death, turning to morphine while bankrolling young Philip.
